

The Day We Retire

Would you agree the only person who can take care of the financial needs of the older person we will someday be is the younger person we are now?